GROWING EUROPEAN MICRO-ENTERPRISES (GEMs)

We have moved to the pilot testing phase!

We are very happy to announce the GEM project has moved to the next work phase: the Pilot Testing one. On the first phase we set up the basis of the project, and also created the portal. Now that the GEM Portal has been created, our work has just begun!

During this second phase it will take place a massive testing through the platform. This way, we make sure everything works as expected, as well as checking contents and behaviour within each page. This is a very important work, in fact, we will count on a 90 people team only for testing the Learning Journeys. This team will be formed by different teachers and trainers.

GEM's main goal is to contribute to the growth of enterprises all over Europe, as well as developing the next generation of High Growth Enterprise Coaches, by providing continuous professional development opportunities. It will be possible thanks to the GEM platform we are now testing. Once registered, the trainers will be able to access the Learning Journeys, where all the content is located. The access to the GEM Portal and the courses will be entirely free.

Our vision is to make GEM Portal an open education platform that helps business formers. All they will need to do is register!

Once the testing is done and the portal is ready, there is no doubt it will be celebrated and warmly welcomed, but in the meantime, us GEM partners do not miss any chance to inform about this project and the portal whenever we can.

For those who cannot wait on news about the GEM project, you can always follow us on social media, so you do not miss anything!
